The Cardinia Shire is located on the south east fringe of Melbourne and is one of eight 'interface Councils' which form the perimeter of metropolitan Melbourne, providing a transition between urban and rural areas. The municipality has an area of approximately 1,280 square kilometres, comprising a variety of landforms and landscapes.

The northern part of the Cardinia Shire is set in the foothills of the Dandenong Ranges, and includes the Bunyip State Park and the Cardinia Reservoir. The red volcanic soils around Gembrook have been historically significant for potato production. The area is located within two water catchments being the Yarra Valley and Westernport catchments.

The Koo Wee Rup swamp and Western Port form the significant features of the southern part of the Cardinia Shire, and includes high quality agricultural land of State significance. The land is generally flat alluvial plains which have been substantially cleared of vegetation. The exception to this is the Heath Hill area, which is recognised as being of landscape significance by the National Trust.

The Princes Highway and the Princes Freeway corridor runs east-west through the centre of the Cardinia Shire and provides a demarcation between the hills in the northern part of the municipality and the alluvial plains to the south. The corridor is a key road and rail link between Melbourne, the Latrobe Valley and Gippsland. The South Gippsland Highway is a key link to south Gippsland and a tourist route to Phillip Island.

The majority of the Cardinia Shire's population is located within the existing towns of Beaconsfield, Officer and Pakenham. These towns are part of the Casey-Cardinia Growth Area, and will accommodate the majority of future residential and commercial growth. The remainder of the population is located within Cardinia's townships and rural residential areas.

The population within the Cardinia growth area is expected to grow from a current population of around 77,000 people (2011) to 120,000 people by 2021, and to approximately 155,000 people in 2031. A major employment corridor of approximately 2,500 hectares south of the Pakenham Bypass has been identified which, when developed, will provide employment and business opportunities for current and future residents.
